DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This Action is in response to applicant's amendment/arguments filed on September 18, 2009. Claims 70-75 and 79-82 are now currently pending in the present application.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 70-75 and 79-82 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 70-75 and 79-82 are rejected under 35 USC 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hwang et al. (US PG PUB 2002/0077141 A1, hereinafter Hwang) in view of Willenegger (US PG PUB 2002/0009061 A1).

Consider claim 70 (and similarly applied to claims 72, 74, 79, and 81). Hwang discloses a cellular system comprising a mobile station and a plurality of base stations that are in handover with said mobile station, one of said base stations, as a packet transmission base station, performing transmission of a packet to said mobile station by use of a shared channel (paragraph 19, read as the user equipment is located in a soft handoff (SHO) region, where the selected base station transmits packets on the shared channel to the user equipment), wherein said mobile station comprises:

means for controlling a transmission power control signal included in a downlink dedicated channel sent only from the packet transmission base station, by controlling a transmission power (paragraphs 8, 19, 20, read as only the selected node B transmits a Transmit Power Control (TPC) on a downlink dedicated physical control channel (DL_DPCCH) in order for the user equipment to control the transmission power).

Hwang substantially discloses the claimed invention but fails to explicitly teach controllably changing a target reception quality.

However, Willenegger teaches controllably changing a target reception quality (paragraph 47, read as the base station is able to determine the target SNR and is able to scale the transmit power for these channels accordingly to achieve the target SNR).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have incorporated the teachings of Willenegger into the invention of Hwang in order to maintain the signal quality of a transmission received at the user terminal as close as possible to a target signal-to-noise-plus interference ratio.

Consider claims 71, 73, 75, 80, and 82 and as applied to claim 70, 72, 74, 79, and 81, respectively. Hwang and Willenegger disclose wherein said mobile station further comprises: means for producing the transmission power control signal for controlling transmission power of the downlink dedicated channel on the basis of the target SIR to transmit transmission power control signal to the packet transmission base station through the uplink dedicated channel (Hwang; paragraphs 19, 20, Willenegger; paragraph 47).
